PROVISIONAL ACCESSION OF ICELAND, TUNISIA AND YUGOSLAVIA

The Declarations which provide for the provisional accession of Iceland, Tunisia and Yugoslavia will expire on 31 December 1965. The Council of Representatives, at its meeting on 14 December, decided to prepare a procès-verbal to extend each of these Declarations for a further period. The texts are reproduced herewith. The three procès-verbaux are now open for acceptance at the office of the secretariat. They can be accepted by signature or by letter addressed to the Director-General by the Head of State, the Head of Government or the Foreign Minister.

Attention is drawn to the importance of early acceptance of these new instruments in order to avoid a lapse of contractual commitments between the provisionally acceding governments and the other parties to the Declarations.
